

Scott F. Large

Mr. Large joined the NRO in 1986 as a Project Management Engineer in the Office of Development and Engineering developing advanced spacecraft payloads. He held various development and systems engineering positions within the NRO's Imagery Systems Acquisition and Operations Directorate through 1997.

In 1998, Mr. Large was appointed the Deputy Chief for Programs within the CIA Directorate of Operations' Technology Management Office. In this position, he helped administer a joint national program while assisting in the development of the program's strategic plan and program management process. In 2000, he was selected as Director of a technical collection group within the Office of Technical Collection in the CIA's Directorate of Science and Technology. While there, he led the development and execution of critical collection operations for the Intelligence Community. In September 2000, he became the Deputy Director of the Office of Technical Collection. Mr. Large's last CIA assignment was as Associate Deputy Director for Science and Technology, beginning in September 2001.

From July 2003 to November 2006 he served as Director, Imagery Systems Acquisition and Operations Directorate at the NRO. Mr. Large was the Director, Source Operations and Management Directorate at the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency (NGA) until April 2007 when he again returned to the NRO to assume the position of NRO Principal Deputy Director. In October of that year Mr. Large was appointed by the Secretary of Defense to become the sixteenth NRO Director and Assistant to the Secretary of the Air Force (Intelligence Space Technology).

His recognitions include the NRO Meritorious Service Medal, the NRO Superior Service Medal, the NGA Medallion for Excellence, the NGA Distinguished Civilian Service Medal, the National Intelligence Distinguished Service Medal and the Secretary of Defense Medal for Exceptional Service and the CIA Distinguished Career Intelligence Medal.

Mr. Large received a Bachelor of Science degree in Engineering in 1979 from the University of Central Florida, majoring in electro-optics and semiconductor devices.

Mr. Large is a member of the Oak Ridge National Labs Global Security Directorate Strategic Advisory Group, the AFCEA Intelligence Committee, the Board of Directors of the Intelligence and National Security Alliance, the Intelligence and National Security Foundation Board of Trustees, the Hume Center for National Security and Technology Board of Advisors at Virginia Tech and the Board of Directors of the National Intelligence University Foundation.